
Spelling Errors in Default Messages

Posted by marcpsummers - 2008/11/18 14:29

I have noticed there are spelling errors in the default email templates.

for example...

Thank you for your resent request from Monkey Design House. We are thrilled to be able to send the information you requested... but there's just one more quick step.

instead of....

Thank you for your recent request from Monkey Design House. We are thrilled to be able to send the information you requested... but there's just one more quick step.

Could someone spell check them or do I have to check each default message manually?

=====

Re:Spelling Errors in Default Messages

Posted by JManna - 2008/11/18 15:37

Marc,

Where are these misspellings? If you want I could pass this feedback along to our product team to address.

As a general rule, I suggest users change all messages/templates to better reflect their voice, brand and tone so it is unique to them.

~Joe

=====

Re:Spelling Errors in Default Messages

Posted by marcpsummers - 2008/11/19 01:11

The word 'recent' is spelt 'resent' in the newsletter double opt in reply.

I will check them all as we use them.

Marc

=====

Re:Spelling Errors in Default Messages

Posted by rossb - 2008/12/02 11:07

Please let us know if you find any more misspelled words.

=====